ARTS TUTORS AND SUPPORT FOR SCHOOLS

A REFRESHINGLY NEW APPROACH TO PROMOTING EXCELLENCE
AND OPPORTUNITY IN ARTS EDUCATION.

"I HAVE SEEN HOW THE ARTS HELP STUDENTS TO COMMUNICATE. THE ARTS HELP TO GIVE SO MUCH
CONFIDENCE. THEY CREATE INCREDIBLE YOUNG PEOPLE."

ANDRIA ZAFIRAKOU
THE VARKEY FOUNDATION GLOBAL TEACHER OF 2018.

ABOUT US

Arts People was set up in 2018, by a team of teachers experienced in promoting and delivering quality arts education. Since then, we have appreciated working with a growing number of schools across West Yorkshire, providing individual music tuition and class teaching in art and music. For 2021, we are introducing cross- curricular workshops, which are currently being successfully trialled.

PROMOTING EXCELLENCE AND OPPORTUNITY

At Arts People we are passionate about promoting excellence and opportunity through arts education. We encourage children and young people to:

- Enjoy learning music and arts in various and exciting ways
- Learn to play an instrument and/or develop vocal skills
- Build confidence, creativity and performance skills
- Explore the link between music, art and other subjects

ASSURANCE OF QUALITY

All our tutors are not only great musicians or artists, but they are also effective teachers. We have a safer recruitment process which includes an interview and audition. Our quality assurance process gives opportunity for school feedback and, in normal times, will include lesson observation and feedback. We can put you in touch with current client schools should you wish.

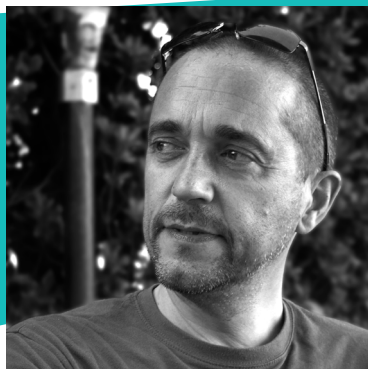

MEET THE DIRECTORS

RICHARD HORSFALL

Rich has a degree in music technology from Sheffield University and a PGCE from Huddersfield. He has 20 years' successful experience in arts education, including as Head of Performing Arts. Many of his past students have gone on to careers in the arts. Through his work as a musician and sound engineer, Rich has been involved in productions all over the UK, including Theatre Royal, Drury Lane, Birmingham Symphony Hall and St David's Hall, Cardiff.

RICHARD HUGHES

Richard is an Oxford graduate, who has worked in education, business and consultancy. He has over 30 years as a qualified teacher, with experience of senior leadership in four challenging secondary schools. This included a decade as a headteacher, where his focus was on creating wide opportunities for young people. In particular, he promoted school partnership and supported the value of sports and arts.
